Letter to the Editor 3

Tribute to Pat Janeway 3

Eileen De Guire

Pat Janeway retires from ACerS after long career as editor and associate publisher

Microspheres for energy applications 22

Thorsten Brandau, Egbert Brandau, and Rick Rehrig

Microspheres and microcapsules offer new solutions for solar, nuclear, and oil and gas recovery techniques.

Role of atomistic simulations in understanding fission product accommodation in ceramic nuclear fuel 28

Susan B. Sinnott and Blas Pedro Uberuaga

Design of longer lived nuclear fuel pellets requires accurate understanding of how microstructures accommodate fission products.

Refractories—The world's most important but least known products 34

Charles E. Semler

A summary of highlights from the plenary lectured delivered at UNITECR'13, including business and market trends, technical advances and successes, and future directions and needs for refractories and the refractory industry.
