

FW
B 91

A Journal of Bryology and Lichenology

THE BRYOLOGIST

VOLUME 116
NUMBER 3
FALL 2013

American Bryological and Lichenological Society

Bryologist

Volume 116 Issue 3

RESEARCH ARTICLES

Isozyme evidence regarding the nature of polyploidy in the moss genus Cinclidium (Mniaceae)

Robert Wyatt, Ireneusz J. Odrzykoski and Ann Stoneburner

pg(s) 229–237

Palaeoecology of Sphagnum obtusum in NE Poland

Mariusz Gałka, Łukasz Lamentowicz and Mariusz Lamentowicz

pg(s) 238–247

The calicioid lichens and fungi of the Acadian Forest Ecoregion of northeastern North America, I. New species and range extensions

Steven B. Selva

pg(s) 248–256

A new lichenicolous lichen from Europe and western North America in the genus Dimelaena (Physciaceae)

Kerry Knudsen, John W. Sheard, Jana Kocourková and Helmut Mayrhofer

pg(s) 257–262

A Revision of Blindia (Seligeriaceae) from Southern South America

Barbara K. Andreas

pg(s) 263–280

A lectotype for Dicranum howellii (Dicranaceae)

Michelle J. Price and Eva Maier

pg(s) 281–286

Taxonomic investigations of Lecanora strobilina and L. symmicta (Lecanoraceae, Lecanorales) in northeastern North America

Scott LaGreca and H. Thorsten Lumbsch

pg(s) 287–295

A new fossil moss Muscites kujiensis (Bryopsida) preserved in the Late Cretaceous amber from Japan

Tomoyuki Katagiri, Masaaki Mukai and Tomio Yamaguchi

pg(s) 296–301

New lichen species from the Caatinga in Chapada do Araripe, northeastern Brazil

Aline Anjos Menezes, Amanda Barreto Xavier-Leite, André Aptroot and Marcela Eugenia da Silva Cáceres
pg(s) 302–305

RECENT LITERATURE

Recent literature on bryophytes—116(3)

William R. Buck, Bruce Allen and Ronald A. Pursell
pg(s) 306–315

Recent literature on lichens—230

Brendan P. Hodkinson and Sarah Z. Hodkinson
pg(s) 316–320

BOOK REVIEW

Field Guide to Northeast Mosses

Robin Wall Kimmerer
pg(s) 321–322

England's Rare Mosses and Liverworts—A wonderful overview

James R. Shevock
pg(s) 323–324

NEWS AND NOTES

News and Notes

pg(s) 325–325