The ASM is at the forefront in education concerning appropriate standards for research with wild animals. ASM Animal Care and Use Committee members speak on these topics at meetings of organization such as Public Responsibility in Medicine and Research (PRIM&R) and Scientists Center for Animal Welfare (SCAW) as well as in webinars sponsored by the NIH Office of Laboratory Animal Welfare (http://grants.nih.gov/grants/olaw/educational\_resources.htm). Committee members have helped develop a wildlife-specific training course for the Collaborative Institutional Training Initiative (CITIprogram.org), a wildlife-specific IACUC protocol form, and other resources geared toward work with wild animals. To learn more about how the ASM ACUC is working for you, go to the “Whats New” tab on the ASM home page.

Front Cover—The Chrysopteron subgenus of Myotis bats traditionally comprises species characterized by spectacular dichromatic wing membranes. The article by Csorba et al. (pages 663–678) validates that Chrysopteron is the earliest available name for the monophyletic “Ethiopian clade” established by phylogenetic reconstructions, and revises the taxonomy of Asian forms, recognizing 6 species in the region.
